

Merry Christmas from Kevin and Lisa,

December 2016

Greetings from not so cold Tucson Arizona. Even though moving and old people don't go together we are still alive. We are now first time homeowners in the U.S. We closed on a house in October and are somewhat moved in. See new address below.

The last couple months have been a struggle to balance ministry, family, house repair and update, and moving into our new home. Nevertheless we still keep marching forward and are doing well. We are so thankful for God's provision of this place and are really enjoying it. As new homeowners I keep busy with the endless list of details, and Lisa is enjoying making our house a home. Fortunately I love working with my hands and Lisa loves making things homey.

This current semester we started off our training program in Spanish for the third year. Even in the midst of all this busyness, God has provided three groups of people to receive our training, one in Tucson, Southern California, and Nogales Mexico. This semester we will finish the "Survey of the Old Testament", a class called "Gifts, Abilities, and Personal Tools", and two of the three Saturdays of a "Fortified Marriage" class. If you are interested in these classes in English you can find out more at www.CBmatrix.org. Our program is designed for you to be able to use this at your church or small group.

Since being here in Tucson we have visited various churches and started to attend an English-speaking church that is interested in reaching out more to the Hispanic community around them. Besides our ministry in Missions Door, we would really like to be used in a local church near where we live in our area of experience. The leaders of this church are saying that they would like to become more of a bilingual church. Please pray for us as we navigate what that means, that the Lord would give us wisdom as to how to go about making disciples in this context.

Besides getting a new house here in Tucson, we get to live near Kristine and Lee, which has already been very nice. Kristine continues training for her surgical nurse position, a pretty hectic schedule. Just the other day she was telling me about looking at a little boy's brain, kinda weird. Lee continues to do well working as an engineer at Raytheon, and is in the process of buying a brand-new house. Michael and Tiana just visited us the other day as Tiana works for the airlines and gets free travel. It is so awesome to see them adjusting to married life as they were just married in August.

God has blessed us in so many areas of life these days, and that includes all of you who pray for us and support us financially. We really love our life and ministry and consider it a privilege to make disciples in this bilingual context in the US. Thank you so much for being a part of our team, for praying and/or giving. We pray that this time of year will be a great time of remembering and celebrating our Lord's birth here on earth.

We love you and appreciate you,

Kevin and Lisa Lewis
