

Urgent Call to Prayer...again!

Dear friends,

We realize that we haven't updated you on our last urgent request for prayer, we apologize for that. The summary is that God has provided the money required for A's friend's treatment, for which she is so so thankful for... but she isn't healed yet. She's continually reading our book and discovering who God really is and who Jesus is. She feels encouraged and hopeful. Please continue to pray for her!

J has a friend, the only local believer that we know of. His father has cancer and is going for an operation on Friday. Because of a bad heart, the odds are high that he won't make it through the operation but without the operation the cancer has spread so much that he will definitely die within a month. So they made an impossible decision to go through with the operation. Basically, unless God intervenes he won't live through the week.

We have prayed over his father and he allowed us to pray in Jesus' name, but Jesus hasn't healed him yet. His father has had a really hard life and he admits he really hasn't been a good man or good father. Now, in his old age and even more so after getting sick, he feels the weight of his sin, and might be ready to hear more about Jesus and how He takes away the sin of the world -- specifically his sin!

J has prayed for him more than once as have others. J really felt burdened to write him a letter (in Arabic) laying out the good news and what Jesus came to do. He gave it to him today.

Please pray for him to receive this forgiveness and unconditional love and be saved.

We of course would love prayer for his physical healing too, he would love to meet his first grandchild in April.

Please also lift up J's friend and his family.

Thank you all for continuing to be a part of what The Father is doing here amongst the broken and needy who desperately need to know His salvation.
